President Calls Parley To End Coal Strike

INVITATIONS SENT TO UNION LEADERS AND MINE OWNERS

John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers' President, Promptly Accepts on Behalf of Union.

OPERATORS EXPECTED LIKEWISE TO ACCEPT

Conference Is Set for Saturday, in Washington. To Seek Means for Settlement.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Washington, June 28.—Invitations went out from the white house today asking the leaders of the striking miners and the representatives of the employing coal operators in both the bituminous and anthracite fields of the United States to meet President Harding Saturday "to devise methods upon which negotiations for the settlement of the coal strike can be initiated."

The communications made evident that careful and complete discussions with spokesmen on both sides of the industrial struggle had preceded the meeting call, and prompt and ready acceptance is expected immediately.

John L. Lewis, chief of the United Mine Workers, who remained in the city after a personal interview with the president, accepted at once in behalf of the union.

Program Assured. The wording of the president's message was interpreted as demonstrating the desire of the administration to hold the meeting above the controversies which have bedeviled the unionized section of the industry since April 1. Official, but informal comment emphasized it was the intention that the conference should be held merely to discuss ways and means for a settlement and not to take up the miners' demands for continuance of war-time wage scales, nor the operators' demands in the bituminous field for separate district wage agreements supplanting the semi-national wage contracts that have heretofore been made. It was fully expected, however, that when the meeting assembled, the president or his cabinet members who have participated in the preliminary efforts would have a program for continuation of the settlement attempt to present to the assembly.

Secretary of Labor Davis, who has conducted the negotiations with the union for the government, gave the first news of the action contemplated after a long conference today with the president, and official copies of the invitations were given out later. Alfred M. Ogle, president of the National Coal association, was asked to notify the associations' subordinate operators' organizations to name representatives for the meeting, which S. D. Warriner, of the Anthracite Operators' committee, was invited to represent anthracite operators with the understanding that an additional anthracite spokesman should participate.

To Name Group. Discussions with the operators took place in New York recently, Secretary Hoover speaking for the government. Owing to the large number of individuals and corporations engaged in bituminous production, it was said, the national coal association had undertaken to name a representative group for the conference.

To speak for the unions, the president invited, in addition to Mr. Lewis and John Beatty—head of a bituminous miners district at Clearfield, Pa., and twenty-three other district presidents of the mine workers' organizations.

NEW PLAN OFFERED FOR DISTRIBUTION OF TAGS FOR CARS

A system of distribution of automobile tags by the sheriffs of the state was proposed Wednesday at the convention of the Georgia Association of Sheriffs held at the Kimball house. A resolution asking the legislature to authorize the system was introduced by Sheriff F. M. Blackwell, of Cherokee county and adopted. Practically every sheriff attending agreed that the license tags could be more satisfactorily handled by the sheriffs than by the secretary of state, as at present.

Manson Accepts Senate's Advice And Gets Married

Friends Surprised at Sudden Wedding of Popular Senator.

Senator Frank Manson, of the Thirty-fifth district, Wednesday, proved that he takes a senate resolution seriously. At the Wednesday session of the senate a resolution was adopted congratulating Senator John H. Jones, of the Thirty-seventh and Senator Will Richards, of the Forty-first district, on their wedding which took place since the session of the legislature last summer and calling on all bachelor members of the senate to follow their example at an early date as possible. Within six hours after the resolution was adopted Senator Manson was married.

NOTED SPEAKERS FEATURE SESSION OF CLUB WOMEN

Cancer Not on Increase, Declares Dr. Simon Flexner, and Infantile Paralysis Being Curbed.

WARM DISCUSSION ON MOTION PICTURES

Will Hays Among Speakers—Vocational Training for Prisoners Urged by Hugh Frayne.

BY LOUISE DOOLY. Editor Woman's Dept., Constitution. Chattanooga, N. Y., June 28.—That cancer is probably not on the increase, contrary to recent propaganda, but is more frequently recognized, was a hopeful message in the address Wednesday to the General Federation of Women's Clubs by Dr. Simon Flexner, director of Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research. Dr. Flexner also declared that the tendency in infantile paralysis is toward complete recovery.

Dr. Hugh S. Cummings, surgeon general of the United States, gave a complete synopsis of the government's public health work and defined the best work of the federated clubs, in co-operation with the government, to be education of public opinion as to the government's health service purpose and methods and the need for public co-operation.

In the same conference, Grace Abbott, chief of the children's bureau, urged the importance of a federal amendment providing a minimum age for child labor, but urged that the federation should beware of such amendment as would give congress full jurisdiction and thus limit more liberal legislation by individual states.

Training for Prisoners. Hugh Frayne, general organizer of the American Federation of Labor, and trustee of the national committee on prisons and prison labor, outlined a plan for employment and urged health and vocational tests and training for prisoners, looking to the usefulness of the prisoners when released.

The treasurer reported that the total amount pledged towards the purchase price of headquarters at Washington amount to $101,510.20, of which more than $21,000 has been paid in. Three hundred and five dollars was added today.

The federation endorsed the plan of teaching citizenship in the schools from kindergarten through university, and instructed the states to work for its introduction.

A resolution indorsed the development of Muscle Shoals, and memorialized the president and congress to take prompt action for such development. A telegram from Mrs. Samuel Inman, general director from Georgia, extended greetings to the convention and urged the invitation Georgia is extending for the 1923 council in Atlanta. Invitations will be formally received by the convention Thursday.

IRISH INSURGENTS HOLD FOUR COURTS IN ALL-DAY FIGHT

Artillery Roars in Heart of Dublin, as the Free Staters Besiege Stronghold.

BUT FEW CASUALTIES RESULT FROM FIRING

Provisional Government Begins Effort to Enforce Order in Distracted Erin in Firm Manner.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Dublin, June 28.—Michael Collins, head of the Irish Free State government, took active measures today against the republican insurgents in the heart of the city of Dublin, four courts. An ultimatum for the surrender of the insurgents was ignored and at the expiration of a brief time limit Free State troops in armored cars and motor lorries began a movement against the insurgents which was met with an immediate fusillade from the building.

From dawn until late tonight there were heavy exchanges, although at intervals the firing ceased. Small artillery, trench mortars and machine guns were employed by the attacking forces, but the irregulars confined themselves largely to machine gun and rifle fire. No attempt was made to carry four courts by assault, but one of the walls of the building was breached at various places.

Casualties Few. The casualties are few in proportion to the nature of the fighting, and they consist principally of civilians caught in the line of fire. So far as is known seven were killed and a score more or less seriously wounded. This does not include any casualties that may have been suffered by the irregulars, these being impossible to ascertain.

Less than one thousand Free State troops are engaged in the present operations, and it is known that the irregulars number several hundred. The insurgents were obliged to evacuate several buildings during the progress of the battle, but immediately took up new positions which had evidently been prepared in advance.

The Free State troops did not interfere with activities at republican headquarters in Suffolk street, where Eamon de Valera and his colleagues met as usual. De Valera declined to make any statement on the present situation.

OPPOSE GRANTING BAIL TO OFFICERS

Boykin Declares Two City Policemen Shot Negro After He Had Been Fatally Wounded.

Declaring that the state could prove that A. B. Niles and W. S. Morgan, the two policemen indicted Tuesday by the grand jury on charges of murder, shot Albert Everett, a negro, after he was lying on the ground mortally wounded, following the riot in the A. B. & A. yards, May 7, Solicitor General John A. Boykin Wednesday afternoon made a fight to prevent the policemen from getting bail pending their trial.

Hearing on a petition for bail was continued until Thursday at 3:30 o'clock by Judge E. T. Shuler, before whom the petition is being heard. Solicitor Boykin stated that seven eye witnesses had sworn that the policeman shot the negro after he had been dragged out of a warehouse in the yards, and was lying wounded on the ground. He further told the court that the state had one witness who had sworn that he had picked up a bullet that one of the policemen shot through the negro and lodged in the ground.

Millionaire in Jail Chases His "Glooms" By Peeling Potatoes

White Plains, N. Y., June 28.—Walter S. Ward, millionaire awaiting trial for the confessed murder of Clarence Peters, poverty-stricken sailor, peeled potatoes and washed kettles in the jail here Wednesday. Given his turn at "kitchen police" along with the forty other prisoners, Ward shed the scowl he usually wears in his cell and jovially asked advice on trimming "spuds."

He liked the job, he said.

MYSTERY SHROUDS FATE OF CAPTURED AMERICAN OILMEN

No Word Received in Regard to Forty Americans Taken in Raid by Mexican Rebels.

BUT BRUCE BIELASKI IS FREED WEDNESDAY

State Department Maintains Policy of Waiting Until Further Information Clarifies Situation.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Washington, June 28.—What may have happened to 40 American employees of the Cortez Oil company, captured by rebels near Tampico and held with the company's property for ransom, remained a mystery tonight, although the rebel raid occurred last Sunday morning. No further word has come from Consul Shaw, at Tampico, or from any other official or unofficial source since the consular dispatch of Monday saying that the lives of the 40 Americans and $250,000 in destructible property were held as security on 40 hours' notice for a payment of 15,000 pesos. Department officials would not admit in any formal way that they had any uncertainty because of the lack of information. It was indicated that delay in a complete clearing up of the situation was not regarded as unusual.

There is known to be considerable perplexity here, however, over the fact that Consul Shaw has not informed the state department as to step taken by the Mexican federal authorities to obtain release of captive Americans.

The period granted by Gorosave, the rebel chief, for payment of the ransom had elapsed even before the department's advice were made known here. Directions to the embassy in Mexico City and to the consul to insist on adequate protection for American rights and sentiment and upon punishment of the raiders went forward. So far as known late today no further word had come from any quarter to disclose what developed Tuesday morning when the time limit expired.

Washington Waits. The Washington government today still withheld any step that might lead the way to demands that the Mexican government give the Americans in jeopardy protection. The attitude at the state department was that the reports now available, serious as the situation appeared to be on the face of Consul Shaw's message, did not justify as yet dispatch of warships to Mexican waters or any similar step. Nothing has yet come to hand indicating that the Obregon government is not dealing with the Gorosave coup in a way to safeguard American lives and property.

There is one point in which the message of Consul Shaw does not check up with what was previously understood in official circles here to be the situation in the Tampico region. The consul's message said there were no Mexican federal forces in the vicinity of the Aguarda camp of the Cortez Oil company where the raid and capture took place; other reports indicate there are at least 2,500 Mexican federal troops in the Tampico region.

Laboy and other disturbances to the south of Tampico a short time ago resulted in the movement of considerable bodies of troops to other points.

Bielaski Released. In view of the serious consequences to the Mexican government which any injury to the captive Americans would imply, however, it was argued that the government would feel it necessary to rush its forces back to the

WORKER DEMANDS ARE "IMPOSSIBLE," OFFICIALS STATE

Hopes of Avoiding Big Railroad Strike on July First Are Admittedly Dim.

ONLY TWO LOOPHOLES TO AVOID WALKOUT

Labor Board May Take Jurisdiction, or, If Work Stops, Order the Men Back.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Chicago, June 28.—Two possible means of warding off the threatened rail strike of 400,000 shopmen suggested themselves to railroad circles tonight following what B. M. Jewell, head of the shop union, termed the "last word" to the railroads in the union ultimatum sent to the association of railway executives last night.

The executives by coincidence, were scheduled to meet in Chicago tomorrow afternoon and local railroad executives today said the shopmen's proposal of a three pending further negotiations on wages and working conditions, would undoubtedly receive attention.

President Jewell's telegram last night to T. Dewitt Cuyler, chairman of the executives, left little leeway for avoiding the strike. It was felt by railroad officials today.

Demands "Impossible." They characterized the union demands that the $60,000,000 wage cut ordered by the railroad labor board July 1, be stayed, that rules abolished by the board be restored and that farming out of railroad work be discontinued, as "impossible" and "unreasonable."

The certain rejection of the union proposal therefore left, in the opinion of railroad men, but two possible loopholes to avoid issuance of the strike call.

One was that a conference between the union leaders and the executives might be called tomorrow, and if no agreement is reached a technical dispute might be announced over which the railroad labor board, acting under authority of the transportation act, could take jurisdiction as it did in the Big Four brothers' strike last year and act to prevent a walkout.

The other was that if the strike is called, the board could also take jurisdiction under the act, on the ground that the strike would interrupt commerce and order the status quo maintained.

Eminence, Kansas Is Going to Dance In Schoolhouse

No Invitation For Superintendent Who Barred Educated Feet, However.

Eminence, Kan., June 28.—Way down here 80 miles from the railroad we don't have a picture show every night and none of our new radio telephones have been able to pick up any music yet, so we are going to dance Saturday night, and we are going to do it in the schoolhouse. So there!

This may not mean so much to the big cities until it is recalled that Miss Linnie Wooster, the superintendent of the Kansas state school board, has canceled Mrs. Clara White's certificate to teach because she danced at a schoolhouse dance here, and said we could never dance any more in our schoolhouse.

Nine-Year-Old Boy Confesses He Shot Stepmother to Death

Jackson, Miss., June 28.—Ellis Quinn, 9, testified to a coroner's jury today that he shot and killed his stepmother, Mrs. Peter Quinn, at McCool, Miss., who, he said, threatened to cut his throat. The boy was released on his own recognizance for preliminary trial tomorrow.

The boy swore that his stepmother had severely whipped him repeatedly for trivial offenses, and that when she threatened to cut his throat if he did not finish the family washing before she returned with a pail of water from a nearby spring, he shot her.

The boy said he was afraid she would put her threat into execution as he had been unable to complete the washing. The youth testified that he shot his stepmother with a single barrel shotgun that struck her in the face and hand and knocked her down and that he afterwards reloaded the gun four more times and fired into her prostrate body, three loads taking effect.

TENTH OF GEORGIA INCOME IS URGED FOR HER COLLEGES

Report Is Agreed Upon at Meeting of Joint Committee of the Senate and the House.

CREATION OF BOARD OF CONTROL FAVORED

If Report Is Adopted, the University and Branches Will Receive About $1,000,000 Annually.

Creation of a board of control of five members with authority over the trustees of the University of Georgia and its branches, was recommended in a report agreed on Wednesday afternoon by a joint committee of the senate and house appointed last year. The committee also recommended that one-tenth of all the state's income be set apart annually and appropriated for the support and maintenance of the University of Georgia and its branch institutions.

It was recommended that the number of trustees of the university proper and each of its branches be fixed in the discretion of the board of control at not less than five nor more than nine.

This would bring a big reduction of the present number of trustees. There are now 203 trustees of the university and its branches.

Report Is Adopted. The report was adopted unanimously by five members of the committee. Two members were absent.

It will probably be submitted in both houses Thursday. Bills incorporating the report's recommendations will be prepared immediately and introduced simultaneously in the lower house and the senate.

If the measure passes, the appropriation to the state's educational institutions will be fixed, although they will receive but little more money than was given them last year.

Appointment of the board of control would be vested in the governor, with the advice and consent of the senate, terms of the members to be for six years, but not to expire at the same time, and they would receive the same compensation as members of the general assembly and actual expenses.

MINORITY REPORT TO ASK 3 PER CENT TAX ON INCOMES

Delivery of Governor's Message Will Be Feature of Meeting of Legislature on Thursday.

BATTLE ON HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT RENEWED

Chief Feature of Interest in Senate Is Renewal of Fight on Tax Equalization Law.

Submission of recommendations by minority members of the recess taxation committee that a 3 per cent state income tax be imposed in Georgia and the delivery of the governor's message, which will be presented in person by Governor Thomas W. Hardwick, will be outstanding features of the Thursday session of the Georgia general assembly, which reconvened in annual session at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. The opening of the legislature Wednesday was marked by a renewal in the house of the fight waged last year against the state highway department.

In the senate the chief feature of interest was the renewal of the fight to repeal the tax equalization law. A resolution to set the measure for consideration on July 6 was introduced by Senator J. B. Jackson, of the twenty-first district. Senator Jackson, Senator Nix, of the fifty-first and others announced openly that they intended to repeal this law before they returned to their homes.

Income Tax Battle. One of the hardest fought battles of the present session is expected to arise over the proposed adoption of an income tax system to be substituted either in whole or in part for the present ad valorem system. The majority members of the recess taxation committee led by Senator John H. Jones, of the thirty-seventh district, have prepared a report in which they reject the adoption of an income tax of any kind and offer as a substitute the classification method of taxation.

The minority members in addition to recommending the adoption of the 3 per cent income tax suggest the reduction of the present constitutional five mill tax to four mills. Both reports will be submitted to the two branches of the legislature and the subject will be taken up Thursday.

GORDON ATTACKS EDUCATION BOARD

Councilman Assails Members for Delay in Building Schools With Bond Issue Money.

Declaring the delay in building schools in Atlanta with the bond money which has been available for more than a year is a "shame and disgrace" and charging the board of education with procrastination, Councilman Bob Gordon, at a meeting of the board of firemasters Wednesday, scored what he termed "unnecessary delay" on the part of the board and accused them of quarrelling and "fussing" over proposed school sites without doing anything to remedy the situation.

Councilman Gordon opposed the request from the board of education for permission to construct six portable school buildings, which was presented before the firemasters for approval. He reiterated his charges that the education board had done nothing to remedy the situation and declared not one member of that body was a business man possessed with any degree of foresight. The requests, however, were granted after the firemasters were informed that such a move was necessary to care for school children.

"The bond money has been available for more than a year," asserted Councilman Gordon, "and yet there hasn't been a wheel turned towards building schools. Now they are asking permission to build six portable buildings to cost $1,500 each. There is not a man on the board of education who is a business man."

TRACES TOO SLIGHT TO HAVE RESULTED IN DEATH OF MAN

Everhart Reports Results of Analyses—Dr. Saggus to Demand Immediate Preliminary Trial.

STATE WILL CONTINUE PROSECUTION OF CASE

Analysis for Defense Still Under Way, and Prosecution May Order Third Examination Made.

BY BOYCE FICKLEN, JR. Washington, Ga., June 28.—(Special.)—No poison was found in the body of Mrs. Mary Walker Saggus and only a small amount of strychnine—not enough to have caused death—was discovered in the organs of Charles M. Wilbanks, Dr. Edgar Everhart, Atlanta chemist who made the analysis, reported to F. E. Callaway, clerk of Wilkes superior court, tonight.

Dr. J. G. Saggus, who is charged with having murdered Mrs. Saggus and Wilbanks, who was the husband of the physician's present wife, will ask an immediate preliminary trial in an attempt to secure his release from jail and establish his innocence. The hearing probably will be held Saturday.

The "beautiful" theory that Dr. Saggus poisoned his wife and Mr. Wilbanks in order that he might marry Mrs. Wilbanks, asserted R. C. Norman, chief counsel for the defendant, "has vanished in thin air. This is all we have to say at this time, except that we confidently expect the preliminary trial to result in the release of our client."

To Continue Prosecution. Solicitor-General Marion L. Felt, of Warrenton, declared that the state will continue the prosecution owing to evidence in his possession, which has not been made public, and testimony presented at the coroner's investigation here on June 19.

"You may say," said the solicitor-general, "that it is the state's present plans to continue the prosecution. There is another analysis under way in Augusta and I presume the defense will make known the result."

Immediately after Dr. Everhart's report was received by the superior court clerk, The Constitution's correspondent read it to Dr. Saggus at the jail.

"That's fine," said the physician, "I appreciate your thoughtfulness in giving me the benefit of the entire report. This report bears out to the letter the statement asserting my innocence I made to you shortly after I drove to Washington and gave myself up to the authorities here."

"If I had been guilty of the charges brought against me at the coroner's hearing in Washington, I certainly would have gone in the opposite direction instead of coming in all haste to face the charges and prove them false."

"Trying Experience." "It has been a trying experience, you can well imagine," he continued, "and I feel that a great load has been rolled off my shoulders. Throughout the trying experience of the past ten days, however, I have been made to realize more fully than I was aware, the value of the loyal friends that I have in Wilkes county, where I have spent the first nine years of my professional life. This is actually true of the splendid evidence of true friendship on the part of the people of Harlem, my recently adopted home."

"I cannot express the full extent of my gratitude to them. Say for me too," he added, "that I sincerely appreciate the attitude of the newspapers."

Another examination of the organs of Wilbanks and the first Mrs. Saggus may be ordered by the prosecution, it was reported tonight, but no definite decision has been reached.

Dr. Everhart's report in full reads as follows: "On the 21 instance, I received from Dr. A. W. Simpson the brain, stomach, kidneys and liver said to have come from the body of Mrs. Mary Walker Saggus. These viscera I subjected to a thorough analysis for the detection of poisons.

"In every test I obtained negative results. There was no poison in the body. This analysis concluded the search for all inorganic poisons, as well as organic. A special search was made for strychnine, but none was present.

"On the 23 instance, I received the brain, spinal cord, liver, stomach and kidneys of Mr. Wilbanks. I subjected these various organs to the same tests as those previously mentioned.

"The spinal cord contained minute traces of strychnine. The brain contained the same, barely enough to recognize.

"The stomach, liver and kidneys were finely ground and mixed in an aliquot part of this mixture, a larger amount of strychnine was found, but in quantity too small to weigh accurately. It is impossible to say how much strychnine was in all the organs, but I guess it was less than one-tenth of a grain. Beside strychnine, no other poison was present," he said.

Dr. Saggus stated several days ago that he expected a small amount of strychnine to be found in the body of Wilbanks as he had administered two injections of one-thirtieth of a grain each as a heart stimulant.

Mrs. Saggus died in Tyronne, where both the Saggus and Wilbanks families resided at the time, in November, 1921. Wilbanks' death followed in February, and three months later Dr. Saggus married Mrs. Wilbanks.

The second Mrs. Saggus, at her home in Harlem, expressed herself as "overjoyed" at the result of the examination, and declared the result was exactly what she had expected.

WALKER SAYS CASE IN HANDS OF FELTS.

R. E. Walker, of Atlanta, brother of the first Mrs. Saggus, when informed last night of the chemist's findings stated that further action in the prosecution of the case was in the hands of Solicitor-General Felts, and that he would have to confer with him before making any comment.

Mr. Walker instituted the investigation which resulted in the Harlem physician's arrest under charges of double-murder. He employed Special Detective T. Q. Sturdivant, of Atlanta, who presented a mass of circumstantial evidence against Dr. Saggus at the coroner's hearing.

FARMER IS ARRESTED ON BAD CHECK CHARGE

Luzi Shova, aged 19, a farmer, giving his address as Hickman, Miss., was arrested Wednesday by Detectives T. Q. Sturdivant and Pat Campbell in connection with an alleged worthless check transaction.

It developed following his arrest that he had applied for enlistment in the marines. Officials of the marine corps stated Wednesday night that he had been accepted for enlistment. They interested themselves in proceedings to obtain his release.

WATERMELON WAGON WRECKED IN ACCIDENT

Dr. M. D. Huff, of 891 Highland avenue, a dentist with offices in the Candler building, figured in a collision which wrecked a wagon filled with melons Wednesday afternoon on Houston street near Bell street.

Dr. Huff was driving his automobile out Houston street and attempted to pass a watermelon wagon driven by a negro whose name has not been learned by police. The negro turned his team to the left, directly in front of the automobile. Two wheels of the wagon were demolished. Watermelons were scattered in many directions.

HARRIS BILL PROVIDES WORLD COTTON SURVEY

Washington, June 25.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.)—Following a conference with Secretary Hoover, of the department of commerce, Senator Harris, of Georgia, today introduced in the senate a bill which authorized a world survey of cotton three times yearly. The bill is a substitute for a similar measure presented by the Georgia senator recently with changes to comply with specifications from the department of commerce.

At the conference between Secretary Hoover and the Georgia member, Senator Harris said that the department of commerce had found it desirable to gather all possible statistics on the amount of "carry over" cotton and the grades at three periods of the year.

$25,000 For Expenses. The figures in the United States would be gathered by the census bureau and the foreign data would be compiled by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, both of which are branches of the commerce department. To carry out the survey of world supplies the sum of $25,000 is to be made immediately available, as proposed in the measure.

Passage of the bill will to some degree set to rest the market conditions during the periods of fluctuations over undetermined stocks on hand, it is said. The Harris bill reversed provisions in part as follows:

Director of Census. The director of the census shall collect information showing the quantities and grades of baled cotton on hand. Such information shall show the number of bales of cotton of the grades tenderable under the law on hand on September 1, December 1 and March 1 of each year, and shall be published as soon as possible after each of these dates and be distributed in the same manner as other cotton statistics are now required by law to be distributed.

The director of foreign and domestic commerce shall cause periodic surveys of the cotton situation in foreign countries to be made through representatives in such countries, for the purpose of summarizing the world cotton situation on September 1, December 1 and March 1 of each year. These statistics and information obtained from such surveys shall be published as soon as possible after each of these dates and the statistics shall include available facts and careful estimates of cotton production, cotton consumption and of the quantities, kinds and grades of cotton tenderable under the law.

THREE FLYING CADETS DIE IN SHORT FALL

San Antonio, Texas, June 25.—Three aviation cadets were killed and their bodies burned when an airplane in which they had just risen at Brooks Field, fell from a height of 200 feet late today.

The dead are: Waldron R. Farrell, 24, Philadelphia, pilot, killed instantly; William C. McCoy, 22, Nashville, Tenn.; George C. Thompson, 20, West Philadelphia, Pa.

Farrell and McCoy are said to have gone from their station at Kelly Field to Brooks Field, where Thompson had arrived from Carlisle Field, Pa., on his way to Kelly Field.

COTTON MARKET PLAN APPROVED BY BANKERS

W. W. Banks and Hutton Rogers, members of an advisory board, appointed by the Atlanta Clearing House association, were speakers at a luncheon of the Cotton association directors Tuesday.

MINORITY REPORT TO ASK 3 PER CENT

fight over the tax question will begin with their presentation.

Minority Report. The minority report follows: To the President of the senate and the Speaker of the House: We, the undersigned members of the tax committee appointed by virtue of a joint resolution approved August 13, 1921, beg leave to submit the following minority report:

Under the present constitution, it has been clearly demonstrated that it is impossible for the general assembly to enact into law a fair, just and equitable tax bill. Reversible property escapes taxation, and the burden of taxation falls most heavily upon that class of citizens and taxpayers who are least able to bear the same. The taxpayer with his home or little farm, and small dealers who can barely make a living, pay taxes far and beyond their ability to pay, while the real wealth and citizens with large incomes escape taxation. With the demands on the state to support its schools, eleemosynary institutions, penitentiaries and its civil establishments, and with the decreased value of property, a condition confronts us that is almost critical. The people and property that now pay the taxes, can pay no more. They desire, and demand, relief from State, county, school and municipal taxes are too

NEW FIGHT IS STARTED ON TAX EQUALIZATION LAW.

Featuring the opening session of the Georgia senate Wednesday was a renewal of the fight waged last summer to repeal the tax equalization law.

Senators G. A. Jones, of the twenty-seventh district; M. D. Womble, of the twenty-fifth; C. O. Nix, of the fifty-first; B. F. Walker, of the eighteenth; J. H. Boykin, of the twenty-ninth; A. G. Gloucks, of the nineteenth; and J. B. Jackson, of the twenty-first, joined in a resolution which they offered to set the measure for consideration on July 6. The resolution was laid over to be taken up Thursday.

Both factions have prepared for another hot fight over the measure. President Herbert Clay rapped his gavel calling the 1922 session to order at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. The body remained in session a little less than an hour before adjournment until 10 o'clock Thursday morning. The senate fixed its hours from 10 o'clock in the morning until 1 o'clock in the afternoon. A joint resolution was adopted to ear Governor Hardwick's message Thursday morning at 11 o'clock.

Tax Plan Referred. The body received a report by the joint tax committee advising the proposed income tax plan of Governor Hardwick. This report was debated briefly and received as "information." Senator Walker, of the eighteenth district, a member of the joint committee, declared himself opposed to the recommendation in the report that any changes proposed at this time in the law on taxation should be to enact provisions for a responsible "classification" of property.

The city of Atlanta in co-operation with its civic organizations and Fulton county, presented to each member of the general assembly a leather bill folder containing a free season pass to Ponce de Leon baseball park, all the amusement houses in the city and to I sawood.

Orange-CRUSH

The "Crinkly" Bottle is Your Protection

There are many imitations of genuine Orange-Crush. This year more than ever before, numerous substitutes are being placed on the market—a very real tribute to the unequalled merit of this justly popular drink.

Many of these drinks are offered to the retailer at cheap prices—prices which Orange-Crush cannot meet, because of the fact that only the very best and purest ingredients are used in its preparation. It is something of which we are very proud—that Orange-Crush is the most expensive soft-drink to make on the market today.

Here is the Pertinent Point—You pay the retailer as much for the substitutes as you do for Genuine Orange-Crush.

Get your money's worth! Insist upon genuine Orange-Crush. The "crinkly" bottle is your protection. No substitute drink can be bottled in the distinctive "crinkly" bottle.

It Costs You No More to Get the Best

This is the Famous "Crinkly" Bottle. Genuine Orange-Crush, Lemon-Crush and Lime-Crush come in no other bottle.

5¢

The "Crinkly" Bottles are prepared by Orange-Crush Co., Chicago, Waukegan and London. Send for free pamphlet, "How Orange-Crush is Made."

Ingredients
The three "Crush" drinks get their flavor from the delicate fruit oils pressed from the fresh outer skins of oranges, lemons and limes, to which are added sugar, U. S. certified food color, carbonated water and citric acid—the natural acid of oranges, lemons and limes.

Initial Carload Of Meriwether Lambs Sold Here

Meriwether county history was written Wednesday when the first car of lambs ever marketed from that county was shipped by W. S. Tigner, well-known planter, to J. E. Shipley & Bro., of Atlanta, and sold to the White Provision company, for the record price of 10 cents per pound on the hoof.

Nine months ago Mr. Tigner bought 88 thoroughbred Southdown ewes for $500. This year's crop of wool, weighing 500 pounds, and 63 lambs brought him a return in one year on his investment of $437. In addition, he retained 22 lambs with his original flock of 88 ewes.

When the weevil struck Meriwether county several years ago, Mr. Tigner turned to live stock and truck. He has a herd of 50 short horn cattle, Duroc Jersey hogs, and this year has marketed a quantity of English peas from a small acreage. He is preparing to put an extensive acreage in English peas in the future. This year, he proudly states, he did not plant a single cotton seed.

Proposed Condemnation Proceedings for School Site Will Be Opposed

Indications that a lively fight will be waged in the council room next Monday when the recommendations of the bond commission, passed Tuesday, to institute condemnation proceedings to obtain 10 acres of the north end of Grant park for a site for the senior girls' high school are introduced, were strongly in evidence Wednesday. Councilman J. Allen Couch, of the Fifth ward, is taking the lead in opposing condemnations.

The bond commission at its regular session Tuesday voted to acquire the 10 acre tract in Grant park by condemnation methods, provided the property cannot be obtained otherwise.

URGE PARENTS TO GET CERTIFICATES AT ONCE

Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of education, in a statement issued Wednesday urges all parents, whose children have never attended school in Atlanta to obtain immediately a certificate for admission from his office on the fourth floor of his city hall.

Mr. Sutton calls attention to the fact that the last day for school registration is August 11 and that a decided majority of parents wait until the last few days before registering their children. He also calls attention to the necessity of each child having a vaccination certificate before a registration ticket can be issued.

A REPUBLIC THAT WAS.

In the light of the returns from last week's election it is evident that the Irish republic is a thing of the past, succeeded by the Irish Free State, backed by the approval of a majority vote of Irish electors.

And while, as The New York Globe suggests, "abstractly the Irish Free State is not as pleasing a spectacle as an Irish republic would have been, practically it is a happier outcome than the most optimistic would have predicted a year ago."

The election was a notable victory for the superb statesmanship of Lloyd George, just as it was a disastrous defeat for the radicalism and rebellious spirit of De Valera and his followers.

The pro-treaty forces won by a tremendous majority of the votes polled in most of the districts in which elections were held, as a result of which only 33 of the 118 seats in the dail will be occupied by anti-treaty members.

When the returns from the election were finally announced officially it was found that Eirinn Chuid, second only to De Valera himself in point of the power and bitterness of his opposition to the treaty, had not only been defeated, but received fewer votes than any candidate running against him.

It is to be hoped that this will put an effective quietus on the republican agitators.

Further opposition to the Free State government idea on their part will not only be assailable from the standpoint of what is best for the Irish people, but upon the additional grounds of its ineffectiveness.

If they believe in the republican form of government, they essentially believe in the principle of majority rule.

In this instance a majority of the Irish people have said by their ballots that they prefer the form of government vouchsafed and guaranteed by the treaty that was promulgated by representatives of the former Irish republic and of the British crown, and that should end it.

"A GLORIOUS FAILURE."

The long effort to attain the summit of Mount Everest has not ended in the failure indicated in a recent dispatch.

It has not so culminated because of the final words, in the notable account of it—"It was a glorious failure!"

Progress was made; at the hitherto unattained heights of the mighty mountain there were rest-stations for the intrepid spirits who came so near to the cloud-wreathed, snowy summits.

It is needless to ask, "What is to be gained from their attainment?" Science knows, and science will not rest until all mysteries are revealed and we reach the long-dreamed-of summits.

What seems to be the climb of the last hill, only shows others, in the alluring distance, still worthy of attempt.

The distance beckons; the travelers faint and fall on the way, but others take up the long task and press on.

That is the strength—the hope, and human heart in it all!

The landmarks on the lifeway are luminous, and today's "glorious failure," in every department of human endeavor, may be the triumph of tomorrow.

"THE ONLY WAY."

Writing of advertising that brings little, if any, results the Commerce (Ga.) News tells of certain high-way signs near that town, one of which reads "Sir Per Sal!"

Of course the sign is exceptional, and might well be relegated to some mythical Billville locality.

But the Commerce paper, taking it for a text, says—

"That class of advertisers are not builders and newspaper supporters. Fortunately there are exceptions. There are those who spend money in printers' ink. But for these it would be out of the question to publish a newspaper in any community. And yet every business firm in town wants a local paper. Firms who never invest in printers' ink would never succeed as a mail order house. The great mail order houses spend millions in printers' ink, and they get the business. They have found out that it pays to advertise."

The only right way to advertise is in or through the proper medium—the home newspaper and the local enterprises whose interests it advocates and helps to sustain.

Sooner or later, those who avoid the proper channels find their mistake.

Business is built up in the well-patronized advertising columns of the standard home newspapers.

They show "The Only Way!"

Some grocers collect their bill promptly and some sell to prominent families.

There is some fourth dimension necessary in the computation, and I hope to find it soon.

WOMAN SLAYER ON TRIAL TODAY

Moultrie, Ga., June 28.—(Special.) Mrs. Sarah Creech, in prison here, charged with murder in connection with the slaying of Dolly Walters, in a Moultrie suburb Monday, will be given a preliminary hearing before Justice Mairs, of the Moultrie district Thursday.

Mrs. Creech will enter a plea of self-defense. It was stated by her attorneys this afternoon that it will be shown that the Walters sisters, not only precipitated the fight, but planned an attack. The preliminary hearing is expected to establish the real cause of the trouble. Mrs. Creech denies that jealousy had anything to do with the fight.

According to her version the Walters sisters came to her and accused her of "talking about them." She said she denied the charge, but that Florence Walters, who was cut in the fight, persisted in her accusation until she finally called her a liar.

It is expected the commitment trial will draw a tremendous crowd, for it is generally believed new sensational features will develop. Florence Walters will be the chief witness for the state and interest in the hearing will center largely in what she has to say.

Soon after the fight, Florence Walters told the police that she and her sister had been informed that Sarah Creech was carrying a knife to use on them and that they went to see her to learn if the report was true.

"We found Sarah in a belligerent frame of mind and, almost without warning, she began slashing right and left," she said.

RADIO DEPARTMENT

FIFTEEN MINUTES OF RADIO EACH DAY

Formerly Technical Electrical, Expert for United States Government

LESSON No. 81.

The enormous increase, during the last few months in the number of broadcasting stations, resulting in the need for immediate action to effectively control the installation and operation of radio stations was the main reason for the recent gathering in Washington of the department of commerce conference on radiotelephony. At the present time all broadcasting stations with the exception of a few government stations are operating on the wave-length of 360 meters which means that the receiving set is tuned to that wave length in order to hear any one of the broadcasting stations which may be within range. If two stations happen to be operating simultaneously the receiving operator may hear them both and it is practically impossible to pick out either one.

If the recommendations of the conference are followed several stations in a certain locality may operate simultaneously without interfering with each other and the receiving operator will merely have to shift his receiving adjustments to pick up any station he may desire to hear. The entire wave-length group from 360 to 485 meters is recommended for the use of broadcasting stations which carry on a service for entertainment purposes. Other classes of broadcasting may be conducted on wave-lengths up to 3,000 meters. It is obvious, that important services like ship to shore radio-telegraph communication should not be sacrificed for services not so essential and operating wave-lengths for coastal broadcasting stations will be selected so as to cause a minimum of interference with such services.

Even the amateur will benefit by the proposed changes in the assignment of wave lengths. While the maximum wave length which he may now use is 200 meters, the conference has approved increasing this to 375 meters. This will permit the use of more efficient amateur transmitting sets since many amateurs have had great difficulty in keeping within the 200 meter limit without sacrificing the range of their equipment.

It is further recommended that the power of broadcasting stations be limited and stations employing the same wave length be not licensed within a certain distance of each other based upon the range of the stations. Such control of broadcasting stations would aid materially in reducing the interference between stations referred to above.

Amateur stations may be allowed to broadcast within the limits of the group of wave-lengths which are recommended for their use. The various types of amateur radio transmitters will be assigned different "tunes" or wave-lengths so that the man with the half kilowatt spark set will cause the least interference with the activities of radio-telephone stations.

If the recommendations of the conference are adopted and made effective there may be a greater possibility of attaining that much talked of theoretical condition in radio communication when the undesired station may be readily tuned out and the desired station tuned in without interference. Occasionally this condition may be obtained in practice where the transmitting stations are on slightly different wave lengths and far enough away to permit of selective tuning of the receiver.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Radio Editor—Will you please advise me if a variable condenser with plates made of zinc or brass is as effective as with plates made of aluminum? If not, why not? F. M. B.

A variable condenser made with plates of zinc or brass would be just as efficient as one with plates made of aluminum. Aluminum is used chiefly because it is light and because it does not readily corrode.

Radio Editor—I wish to make a detector with a tellurium zinc oxide combination. Could you tell me where I can secure tellurium for experimental work?
You can secure tellurium from most any dealer in minerals. You might try Elmer & Amend, Third Avenue and Eighteenth Street, New York city.

PROPHESIES GREAT WAR

Plant Peas and Butter Beans, Warns Colored Forecaster.

Rev. T. T. Thompson, self-styled colored prophet of divine inspiration, sees big trouble ahead for America between now and August 23, 1922.

"Before that date America will be involved in the greatest of all wars, with Mexico serving as the gateway to world strife," he declared Wednesday just prior to his departure to Philadelphia. "Bloodthirsty creatures from over the seas will descend upon us; we will experience the greatest bread and water famine in all history—even greater than the famines of old Egypt—but Atlanta will not be destroyed. This city, Philadelphia and Washington will be spared the torch. Asked what should be done to prepare for the great emergencies, the colored forecaster of national calamity advised the planting of peas and butternuts, saying that all corn of this year's planting will be burned up."

Rev. Thompson has been preaching and prophesying for the edification of Atlanta's colored populace for the past 89 weeks. He says he will return to Atlanta in time to be with her during her forthcoming trials and tribulations.

TWO MEN BEING HELD PENDING POLICE PROBE

W. B. Barksdale, 25 years old, of 32 West Peachtree place, and N. E. Davidson, of 220 East Pine street, are held at police barracks suspected of being escaped convicts.

They were arrested Wednesday afternoon by Traffic Officer E. C. Hudson in Edgewood avenue at Five Points. Officer Hudson stated that his attention was attracted to the men by the reckless manner in which he saw Barksdale was operating his automobile.

It is claimed that he struck the automobile of a man from Griffin and forced his car out of the center of the street. Officer Hudson was about to hold him under charges of reckless driving, when he says two citizens informed him that Barksdale had escaped from the Chatham county chain gang, and that he was serving a sentence under the name of King there.

RADIO BRIGHTENS FARM WIFE'S LIFE

Woman Writer Says the Best Service Is Rendered to Folks in Rural Districts.

Radio is essentially an instrument of the home. Its service to the family as a whole is readily recognized and too obvious to deserve mention. The mother and housewife has special problems, however, which do not apply to the rest of the family, which radio is—and will increasingly become—an important factor in solving.

At least that is what Mrs. Christine Frederick believes. Mrs. Frederick, writing in Good Housekeeping, says that radio's great service lies in the elimination of the loneliness and isolation which have long been dreadful features of life for many women left alone in their homes for hours on end.

Particularly is this true of women in rural districts and on farms. Their problem has long been recognized by specialists and even government agencies as involving features which require special consideration.

The new officers of the radio, which are frequently had to deal with cases of mental diseases and insanity which may be traced directly to the isolation and monotony of the life which farm women are forced to face.

Mrs. Frederick believes that women are a special group in society, with special needs and interests, and as such are entitled to a special share of the radio entertainment which is sent from the different broadcasting stations. Why not, for instance, have daily setting up exercises, which not only benefit the body, but the mind and soul, and which are frequently had to deal with cases of mental diseases and insanity which may be traced directly to the isolation and monotony of the life which farm women are forced to face.

Why not instruction in first aid, health and beauty talks; talks on housekeeping and drama; book reviews and talks on topics of "cultural" interest which would serve to stimulate and amuse women in their hours of leisure? Other features which Mrs. Frederick mentions and which are already included on the programs of a number of the stations are: Children's stories and stories of woodcraft and animals, market reports, musical programs, fashion and dress discussions, news of sports, current events, public affairs, politics and church services.

Mrs. Frederick believes that the radio will have to go through a period of development similar to that through which the telephone passed in its early stages. The telephone was at first used exclusively for business purposes. Later its uses were gradually extended and now it has become a social necessity. The radio-phonograph will in time undoubtedly be recognized as an important means of making accessible to the housewife the opportunity for intellectual stimulation which is so essential to the progress and emancipation of the housekeeping as well as the business woman.

LOCAL RADIO CLUB IS REORGANIZED

New Constitution and By-Laws Adopted—Charles W. Bell Is Named New President.

Reorganization of the Atlanta Radio club, with adoption of a plan for co-ordination of its work with that of the junior chamber of commerce, was effected at a meeting of members of the club held last night in the Chamber of Commerce building. At the meeting, Charles W. Bell was elected as the new president of the radio club.

Under the new plan the radio club will occupy quarters in the Chamber of Commerce building. While it will retain its identity as the Atlanta Radio club, it will, at the same time, act as a radio bureau for the junior chamber of commerce. Its connection with the chamber will be similar to that of the freight bureau and the convention bureau.

At the opening of the meeting the new officers were elected. Besides Mr. Bell, the new president, the other officers elected were: Philip C. Hays, first vice president; Roy LeCraw, second vice president; H. L. Reid, secretary, re-elected, and Harry Cole, treasurer. The new officers will be installed at the next meeting of the club to be held in two weeks.

Adopted Constitution. Featuring the meeting was the adoption of the new constitution and by-laws, as prepared by a committee headed by Mr. Bell. Outstanding in the new constitution is the clause for co-ordination of work with the junior chamber.

One of the most important moves inaugurated with the adoption of the new constitution was that which is started with the clause calling for a traffic committee. This committee will Reports $65,000 Robbery.

St. Louis, Mo., June 28.—Morris Shinderman, Chicago diamond broker, today reported to the police that he had been robbed of $65,000 in diamonds and jewelry while en route to Mexico, Mo., from St. Louis yesterday.

The young woman is at present residing at a local community house where she is being looked after by Mrs. Key, who in the meantime is making an effort to have the deportation action dropped in order that Miss Crawford may continue to reside in Atlanta.

YOUNG ENGLISH WOMAN IS FREED BY MAYOR'S WIFE

Through efforts of Mrs. James L. Key, wife of Atlanta's mayor and prominent weaver and church worker, the release of Jennie Crawford, a young Englishwoman, held since last March in the Fulton tower on a white slave charge and who is on the verge of being deported to England by the United States immigration authorities, was obtained recently, it was learned Wednesday.

A graphic story told by Mrs. Key, of the young woman's life, which began its exciting career about a year ago when she came to New York from Northumberland county, England to reside with her uncle, Albert Bowman, who conducted a small business there.

Bowman's estranged wife, a flax-Castilian, took offense at the niece's appearance and began to make life miserable for the girl, Mrs. Key asserted.

After having undergone treatment in a hospital in New York, brought about by a nervous collapse, Miss Crawford came to Atlanta with her uncle last March, where both were arrested on charges preferred by Bowman's wife. The young woman was assigned to the city stockade where Mrs. Key found her and immediately arranged for her parole.

Then began a series of communications between Mrs. Key and the young woman's relatives in England. In the meantime immigration officials became interested in the case and were on the verge of deporting the girl when Mrs. Key again interceded and through efforts of Congressman Upshaw succeeded in having action postponed in this regard.

The young woman is at present residing at a local community house where she is being looked after by Mrs. Key, who in the meantime is making an effort to have the deportation action dropped in order that Miss Crawford may continue to reside in Atlanta.

Nobody's Man

BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

Next Week, "The Little Red Foot"
By Robert W. Chambers

"Then we'll drink to it—Mum! Not bad stuff. This way."

Tallente, for the first time in his life, was dining a few evenings later at Darter's house in Chelsea, and he looked forward with some curiosity to this opportunity of studying his chief under different aspects.

The house itself, situated in a Chelsea square of some repute, was small and unostentatious, but was painted a spotless white and possessed, even from the outside, an air of quiet and unassuming elegance. A trim maid-servant opened the door and ushered him into a drawing room of gray and silver, with a little faded blue in the silks of the French chairs. There were a few fine-point etchings upon the walls, a small grand piano in a corner, and very little furniture, although the little there was was French of the best period. There were no flowers and the atmosphere would have been chilly, but for the brightly burning fire. Tallente was surprised when Darter's entrance alone indicated the fact that, as was generally supposed, he was free from family ties.

"I am a little early, I am afraid," Tallente remarked, as they shook hands.

"Admirably punctual," the other replied. "I shall make no apologies to you for my small party. I have asked only Miss Miall and Miller to meet you—just the trio of us who came to lure you out of your Devonshire paradise."

"Miller?" Tallente repeated, with instant comprehension.

"Yes! I was thinking, only the other day, that you scarcely see enough of Miller?"

"I see all that I want to," was Tallente's candid comment.

A letter.

On Tallente's table, when he entered his rooms that night, lay the letter for which he had craved. He opened it almost fiercely. The few lines seemed like a message of hope:

Don't laugh at me, dear friend, but I am coming to London for a week or two, to my little house in Charles street. I don't know exactly when. You will find time to come and see me.

JANE.

The night was bright and dry and there were still crowds about Leicester square, Piccadilly circle and Piccadilly itself. As he walked, he looked into the faces of the women who passed him by, struggling against his old abhorrence as against one of the sickly offshoots of an over-eclectic epicureanism. They typified not vice but weakness, the unhappy result of man's inevitable revolt against unnatural laws. Yet, even then the mingled purity and rigidity, encouraged by years of repression, forbade any violent change in his sentiments. The tolerance for which he sought, when it made its grudging appearance, was mingled with dislike and distrust. He breathed more freely as he turned into the quieter street in which his rooms were situated, passing them by, however, crossing Curzon street and embarking upon a brief pilgrimage which had become almost a nightly one. Within a very few minutes he passed before a certain number in a street even more secluded than his own. At last the thing which he had so greatly anticipated had happened. There were lights in the house from top to bottom. Jane had arrived.

He walked back and forth several times. The music in his blood, stirred already by the wine he had drunk and the revival of old memories, moved to a new and more wonderful tune. He knew now, without any possibility of self-deception, exactly what he had been waiting for, exactly where all his thoughts and hopes for the future were entered. Was she there now, he wondered, gazing at the windows like a moon-struck boy. He lingered about and fate was kind to him.

A limousine swung around the corner and pulled up in front of the door, a few minutes later. The footman on the box sprang down. He heard her voice as she said "Good-by" to someone. The car rolled smoothly away. She crossed the pavement with an involuntary glance at the tall, approaching figure.

"Jane?" he exclaimed.

She stood quite still, with the latch-key in her hand. The car was out of sight now and they seemed to be almost alone in the street. At first there was something almost unfamiliar in her rather startled face, her coiffure hair, her bare neck, with its collar of diamonds. There was a moment of suspense. Then he saw her eyes and he was glad to be there.

"You?" she exclaimed, a little breathlessly.

He plunged into explanations.

"My rooms are close by here in Charles street," he told her. "I was walking home from the club and saw you step out of the car."

"How could you know that I was coming today?" she asked. "I only telephoned Alice after I arrived."

"To tell the truth," he confessed, "I have got into the habit of walking this way home, in case—well, tonight

I have my reward."

She turned the key in the latch and pushed the door open.

"You must come in," she invited. "Isn't it too late?"

"What does that matter, so long as I ask you?"

His followed her gladly into the hall, closing the door behind him.

"That wretched witch is somewhere near here," she said, feeling along the wall.

Her fingers suddenly met his and stayed passive in his grasp. She turned a little around as she realized the nearness of him.

"Jane," he whispered. "I have wanted you so much."

For a single moment she rested in his arms—a wonderful moment, inexplicable, voluptuous, stirring him to the very depths. Then she slipped away. Her fingers sought the wall once more and the place was flooded with light.

"You must come in here for a moment," she said, opening the nearest door. "I shall not ask you to share my milk, and I am afraid I don't know where to get you a whisky or soda, but you can light a cigarette and just tell me how things are and when you are coming to see me."

He followed her into a comfortable little apartment, furnished in mid-Victorian fashion, but with an easy-chair drawn up to the brightly burning fire. On a table near was a glass of milk and some biscuits. The emerald cloak slipped from her shoulders. She stood with one foot upon the fender, half turned towards him. His eyes rested upon her, filled with a great hunger.

"Well?" she queried.

"You are wonderful," he murmured. She laughed and for a moment her eyes fell.

"But, my dear man," she said, "I don't want compliments. I want to know the news."

"There is none," he answered. "We are marking time while Horlock digs his own grave."

"You have been amusing yourself?"

"Indifferently. I dined the other night with Darter, tonight at the Sheridan club. The most exciting thing in the twenty-four hours has been my nightly pilgrimage around here."

"How idiotic!" she laughed. "Supposing you had not happened to meet me? You could scarcely have rung my bell at this hour of the night."

"I should have been content to have seen the lights and to have known you had arrived."

"You dear man!" she exclaimed, with a sudden smile, a smile of entire and sweet friendliness. "I like the thought of you doing that. It is something to know that one is welcome, when one breaks away from the routine of one's life, as I have."

"Tell me why you have done it?" he asked.

She looked back into the fire.

"Everything was going a little wrong," she explained. "One of my farmers was troublesome, and the snow has stopped work and hunting. We lost thirty of our best ewes last week. I found I was getting out of temper with everybody and everything, so I suddenly remembered that I had an empty house here and came up."

"To the city of adventures," he murmured.

She shrugged her shoulders.

"London has never seemed like that to me. I find it generally a very ugly and a very sordid place, where I am hedged in with relatives, generally wanting me to do the thing I loathe. You have really no news for me, then?"

"None, except that I am glad to see you."

"When will you come and have a long talk?"

"Will you dine with me tomorrow night?" he begged eagerly. "In the afternoon I have committee meetings. Thursday afternoon you could come down to the house, if you cared to."

"Of course, I should, but hadn't you better dine here?" she suggested. "I can ask Alice and another man."

"I want to see you alone," he insisted. "For the first time, at any rate."

"Then will you take me to that little place you told me of in Soho?" she suggested. "I don't want a whole crowd to know that I am in town just yet. Don't think that it sounds vain, but people have such a habit of almost carrying one off one's feet. I want to prove about London and ordinary things. One or two theaters, perhaps, but no dinner parties. I shan't stay long. I don't suppose. As soon as I hear that the snow has gone and that terrible north wind has died away, I know I shall be wanting to get back."

"You are very conscientious about your work there," he complained. "Don't you ever realize that you may have an even more important mission here?"

For a single moment she seemed troubled. Her manner, when she spoke, had lost something of its calm graciousness.

"Really?" she said. "Well, you must tell me all about it tomorrow night. I shall wear a hat and you must not order the dinner beforehand. I don't mind your ordering the table, because I like a corner, but we must sail into the place just like any other two wanderers. It is agreed!"

He bent over her fingers. His good angel and his instinct of sympathy, which was always apraising her attitude towards him, prompted his studied farewell.

"You will let yourself out?" she begged. "I have taken off my cloak and I could not face the wind."

"Of course," he answered. "I shall call for you at a quarter to eight tomorrow night. I only wish I could make you understand what it means to have that to look forward to."

SHOPPING, EH? I DON'T SEE HOW YOU CAN REMEMBER ALL THAT STUFF—WHAT DO YOU DO? JUST WALK INTO THE GROCERY STORE AND SAY 'GIVE ME ONE OF EVERYTHING YOU HAVE? OUR MONEY MUST BOTHER YOU—"

"If you can make me believe that," she answered gravely, "perhaps I shall be glad that I have come."

Tele-a-Tete.

Jane leaned back in her chair, drew off her gloves and looked around her the triumph of the afternoon had never brought him one of the thrills which were in his pulses at that moment, not one iota of the pleasurable sense of well-being which was warming his veins. The new menace which had suddenly thrown its shadow across his path was forgotten.

the keen, bright eyes glowed. A light alone out of his more face which few had ever seen there.

"You make all the difference," he whispered. "You can save me from the rocks. I have discovered very late in life too late, many would say, that I cannot build the temples of life

Will you remember that you have found your way along a very difficult path to a goal which no one yet has ever reached? I could tell you more, but may not that be enough? I want you to have something to carry away with you, something not too cold, something that burns a little with the beginnings of life and love, and, if you will, perhaps hope. May that content you for a little while, for you see, although I am not a girl, these things, and thoughts of these things, are new to me."

He drew a little breath. It seemed to him that there was no more beautiful place on earth than this little smoky-hum, corner of the restaurant. The words which escaped from his lips were vibrant, tremulous.

15-ROUND GO ON JULY 3

BY MIKE THOMAS.
Freddie Boorde and Young Silver, for their fight at Ponce de Leon on July 3 have agreed to make 125 pounds at 8 o'clock, and weight and appearance forfeits have been posted with the fight committee of the American Legion under whose auspices the 15-round battle between these two promising featherweights will be held. This will be the first 15-round battle held in Atlanta in some time and without question this is going to be a real battle, because both of the fighters are working like Trojans for this exhibition of sticuffing. These fighters know that a victory means the opening of new and much wider fields of endeavor in the realm of fistiana and both are out in the game to go as high as possible. Neither of the boys would admit under the stress of a big bet that they have aims toward the championship of their division—but away down deep they know that they would like most awfully well to hold this honor. Both of them are ambitious—and both want to go just as high as their limits allow will allow them to travel.

LOST!

250 Pimples, 736 Blackheads
and 3 Boils!

No reward is offered, because they are lost forever! No question will be asked, except one question, "How did you lose them?" There is but one answer—"I cut out new face treatments and guesswork; I used one of the most powerful blood-cleansers, blood-purifiers and face-builders known, and that is S. S. S. Now my face is pinkish, my skin clear as a rose, my cheeks filled out like a baby, my hair is growing again, my rheumatism, too, is gone!" This will be your experience, too, if you try S. S. S. MORVICH WILL TAKE A REST

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 28.—Morvich, last of the eastern horses that ran in the Kentucky special race last Saturday was shipped back to New York yesterday and will be given a short rest before he is called upon to fill his eastern track engagements. Olympic, sublimely of Whiskey, winner of the special, remained at Latonia, and, with Broomster, will represent the Harry Payne Whitney stable in the Latonia derby, to be run on Saturday of this week. This race is at a mile and a half, and to it the Kentucky Jockey club has added $15,000. In the 30 years of its history, beginning in 1883 with the great colt Lenatus, the race has been won by some of the best thoroughbreds on the turf.

Besides the Whitney pair the field this year probably will include Thibodeau, which ran a sensational second to Whiskey in the special; John Finn, which ran to Morvich, and Bet Moses in the Kentucky derby, and E. R. Bradley's By-Gosh. The latter is said to have been working well and to have shown a liking for a distance.

MISS STIRLING WINS MATCH

"BIG SIX" ONCE MORE HURLS A BASEBALL

Barnes Lake, N. Y., June 28.—Six Six has come back.
Christy Mathewson, after a long stay with pulmonary tuberculosis, heard the admiring roar of the crowd again when he stood up in the grandstand at the local park Wednesday and fired out the first ball to the pitcher, formally opening the season of the Adirondack league.
Perhaps it wasn't his famous fade-away, but the model pitcher and baseball character did get enough on the ball to bring the whole stand and bleachers up standing with successive rounds of cheers. He appeared to have been restraining the old desire to take his real windup, and actually pitched while he was at it.
Matty was the real attraction. Accompanied by his wife and son, he served the parade of the Barnes Lake and Plattsburgh teams composed of college players, village officials and hundreds of fans. He appeared to be strong and quite well pleased, and again feel a baseball in his fingers.

RACE ENTRIES AT LAKEWOOD

With the largest list of nominations ever received for the harness race events on the Fourth of July, the entries for the holiday program closed last night with every class filled, according to an official announcement from Secretary Striplin.

Entries are also coming in steadily for the automobile events and the outlook is unusually bright for a great bill of gasoline contests. The feature event for this part of the day's program will be the match race between Harry Glenn and Bob Luton, which promises to be the hottest battle these two popular gasoline characters have ever staged at Lakewood. Since their last appearance together here Luton has copied the southern dirt track title and Harry will endeavor to take his honors from him on the Pouch. O. B. Wright and Louis Trotter will also participate in the free-for-all division to the match.

The running card, of which there will be four crack contests, will make up a very attractive part of the afternoon program. There are no sixteen mounts at the track being prepared for these races.

With a program so rich in varied attractions everybody should find something on the bill that they will especially enjoy, and Lakewood will doubtless have another one of those record breaking crowds gathering for the game that last year, when 20,000 visitors passed through the turnstiles.

The entries for the harness events follow:

Legion Men Want Big Bout

Los Angeles, June 28.—Individual members of the American Legion in Los Angeles have promised Jess Willard, former heavyweight champion, they will start a movement designed to force a meeting between him and Jack Dempsey, according to a statement by Gene Doyle, who is in charge of Willard's training camp in the Hollywood American Legion stadium.

"Armistice day is the time the American Legion boys want and Jersey City is the place," said Doyle. "And they promise they will fight on Willard's side."
Willard says he is amused at the silence of Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, relative to a return match between Dempsey and Willard.
"Dempsey is running away from me," said Willard. "I think he would like to defend the title against somebody besides a middleweight. I came all the way to the Pacific coast to see Kearns, and he said, 'I'm here, Kearns has gone to New York.'"
With the hope something definite will come from the Rickard meeting with Kearns, Willard said he would keep up the light training which he began yesterday morning.

BARNSTORMING RULING EXPECTED THIS WEEK

New York, June 28.—From the tone of his comments on the barnstorming rule which Babe Ruth and Bob Meusel violated at heavy cost last year, it is believed that Judge Lewis announces his decision on the rule within a week he will say that it is no longer effective.

The National League has segregated for the rule but the majority of American league club owners are understood to oppose it.

FINE MATCHES IN WESTERN

Hillcrest Country Club, Kansas City, Mo., June 28.—(By the Associated Press.)—Two rounds of match play in the Western amateur golf tournament today produced some of the greatest contests ever seen in any titular competition and closed with several stars eliminated and several others left in only through breaks in luck which came when they seemed certain of defeat.
Harrison Johnston, of St. Paul, Minnesota, champion and popular favorite to go through to the semifinals at least, fell before Francis Gains, of Omaha, after he seemed to have the Nebraska well in hand, and Chick Evans, of Des Moines, until the youngster cracked under the strain after playing exceptionally at the start.

Two other matches went into extra holes and several were not decided until the 18th green was reached. Johnston's defeat actually seemed to spread gloom around the club house, for he was one of the most popular entrants.

George Von Elm, of Salt Lake City, after winning his 21st hole morning match from Henry Decker, through 20 and 40 feet putts when he seemed sure of defeat, started badly in the second round, being behind Heuben Bush, Jr., of New Orleans, most of the way. The trans-Mississippi and Pacific northwest champion again pulled through by a great comeback, however, winning 2 and 1.

Dave Herron, of Chicago, the former national amateur champion, did not have a hard day, although he defeated Ray Quinn, of Kansas City, 2 up, when he conceded the hole after being faced with the necessity of holing a 20 foot stymie to square the match. Wolff's ball hung on the lip of the cup. Mudge previously having won the morning game that he had the champion off form, shot sensationally at the start and soon took a one lead which he held to the 12th. Both made the turn under par, but Evans was content to trail just as he did with Held until an opening came, feeling sure he could take advantage of it, and that is just what happened.

On the 300 yard par four, 12th McKee's second struck a tree and landed in a pit. Chick put his second four feet from the pin. McKee finally holed out in five, conceding Chick a birdie 3, and the match was squared.
"Chick" drive on the 178 yard 16 was ten feet from the pin for a par 3 but McKee's drive was hooked well to the left and his pitch back was short. His best was a four which made Evans one up. The strain seemed to be showing for McKee, who would not offer an alibi, however.

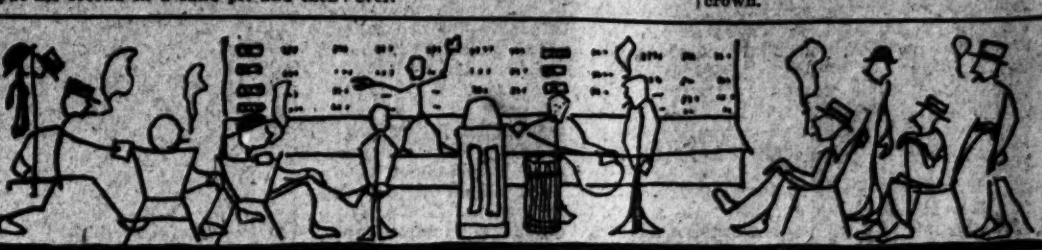

After an almost impossible pitch back to six feet from the cup missed the putt and lost the hole and match.

Ted Payson, Evans' opponent tomorrow, is a young Iowa collegian brought into golf by McKee.

After the Johnston-Gains match it became known that Johnston had become ill during it but refused to quit. He was barely able to finish and was very sick at the stomach.

He would not offer an alibi, however.

Service
Has New Meaning for Firestone Users

Service is a significant term to anyone using Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords. Mileage is one way in which it has been given new meaning. The most exacting of tire-buyers—the big taxicab and motorbus companies and organizations using large numbers of automobiles for their salesmen—have been won to Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords by sheer proof of mileage superiority.

Service, as Firestone users know it, means greater dependability and uniformity of performance as well. This is because Firestone has adopted and held to such difficult but important processes as double gum-dipping of cords and air-bag cure. Tire repairmen—experts in tire construction—will tell you that the Firestone carcass is the strongest and sturdiest ever built. Firestone users by the thousands have voluntarily written us of their great satisfaction with the extraordinary mileage they have obtained.

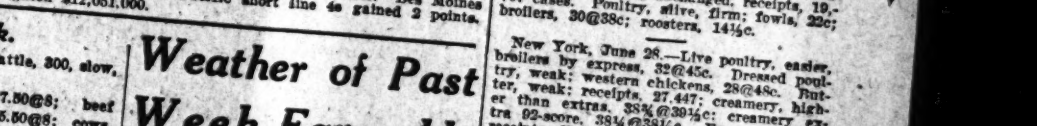

You can forget your tires if you equip your car with Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords on all four wheels. You will have the assurance that you are getting the best and most economical service that money can buy.

COTTON RECOVERS FROM BREAK AND CLOSES AT ADVANCE

Firm Liverpool Cables And Boll Weevil Menace In South Cause Rise

New York, June 28.—An early advance was followed by reactions in the cotton market today, but prices firmed up again in the late trading on lower private acreage and condition figures. October eased off from 21.45 to 21.15, and then advanced to 21.65, closing at 21.57, with the general market closing very steady at a net advance of 27 to 38 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 10 to 15 points on relatively firm Liverpool cables and apprehensions that showery weather in the south was increasing the danger of boll weevil damage. The early demand was quite readily supplied, however, and the market eased off later in the morning, with the selling a little more aggressive after the publication of the weekly weather report indicating that the crop had made fair to excellent progress during the week. There was also some selling on a southwestern report placing the condition of the crop at 75.5, the increase in acreage at 9.5 per cent and the indicated yield at 11,562,000 bales.

A good deal of the pressure, however, appeared to originate with local traders and offerings became lighter during the early afternoon. The market then steadied on bullish spot advices and advanced later on reports that a Chicago authority estimated the increase in acreage at only 6.6 per cent and placed the condition at 71.6.

Houses with western connections were buyers on this advance, while there was also active covering which sent prices into new high grounds for the day. July sold up to 21.63 and December to 21.43, with active months generally showing net advances of 33 to 40 points. The close was a few points off from the best under realising, with the tendency toward a July premium. It was reported that no less than 25 houses had stopped notices issued against July contracts here yesterday. Private cables reported trade buying in Liverpool and Liverpool was a buyer here during the morning. Port receipts today 10,960 bales. United States port stocks 75,516. Exports today 5,852, making 5,651,298 so far this season.

New York Spots.
New York, June 28.—Spot cotton steady; middling 22.10.

PRICES HIGHER IN NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, June 28.—Weevil complaints and low private condition figures put the cotton market strongly higher today in the late trading following uncertain fluctuations in the earlier part of the session. Toward the close the supply of contracts was very light and the market responded very readily to the buying orders that came in, standing at this stage 34 to 35 points higher than the final prices of yesterday, and closing 33 to 43 points net higher. July was the strongest month and closed at 21.55 after trading as high as 21.63.

The weevil complaints came from both the central and the western portions of the belt, many localities claiming that the insect was doing damage in spite of the hot weather prevailing. The market was all the more sensitive to this sort of news because of the showery weather in the belt overnight and the forecast of more showery weather to come. For a while the favorable tone of the weekly crop reports caused moderate selling but this ceased following the issuance of a private report placing the condition of the crop at 71.6, the increase in acreage at 0.6 per cent and the indicated yield at 12,900,000 bales.

The market did better on the opening because of the showery weather in the interior overnight and a strong Liverpool. Early advances amounted to ten to twenty points. Following the reading of the weekly crop reports went to their lowest five up to eight down, compared with yesterday's close.

Cotton Seed Oil.
New York, June 28.—Despised tenders of 4,000 barrels on July contracts, nearby deliveries of cotton seed oil were 5 points higher early on support from refiners, but the last eased under extreme selling of new crop months and in sympathy with hog products.
